Download.com, but if you run a search with the URL in a search engine like Google, you should get the same result. As far as I can see this URL is only in the article and not on the actual site. I do not think it is a scam. If it is just a page error, then it should be removed and replaced. If it is not, then maybe it is not so much the first post as a general practice of Cnet or Download.com. A: Well, the site you mentioned isn't even a CNet or Download.com link. Re: Leaks URL

It's an app made to get torrents into any device that can browse torrents. The name is 2d92ce491b
